

“With all your body, all your heart and all your mind, listen to the Revolution”

- Alexander Blok 1918

1918 Russia

- All of Russia was in complete disarray
- WWI ending, Communist Revolution, foreign invasion, civil unrest
- Had to solidify control, establish order

The Revolution

- Starting from scratch
- Wanted a new way of doing everything
 - Politics
 - Art, design, theater, film

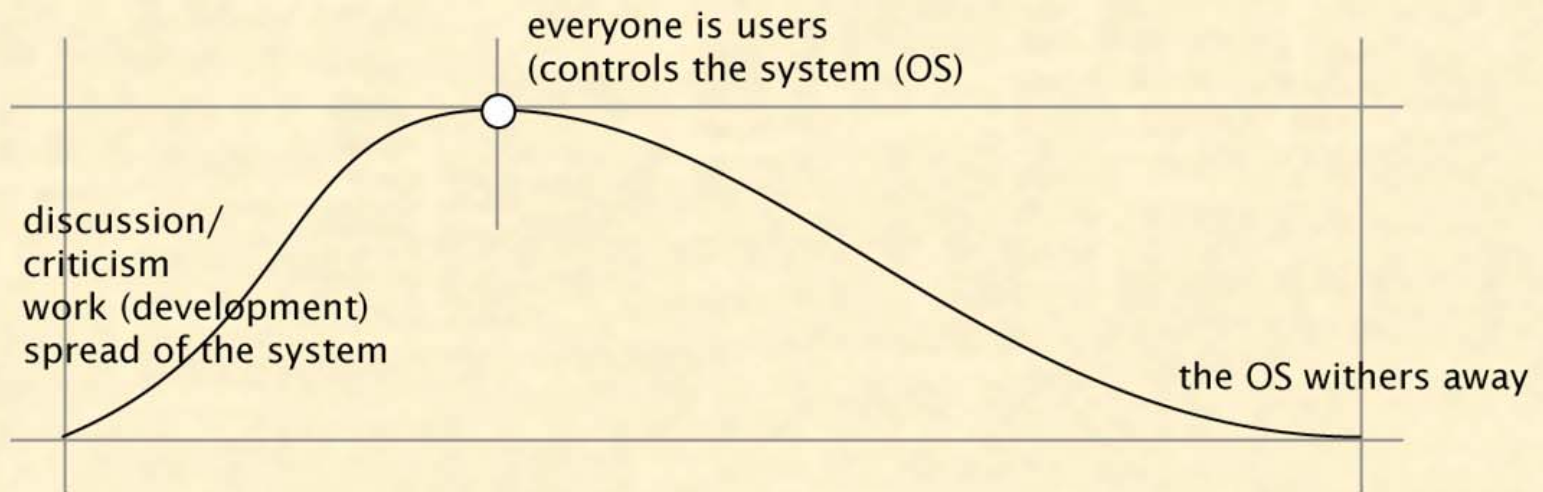

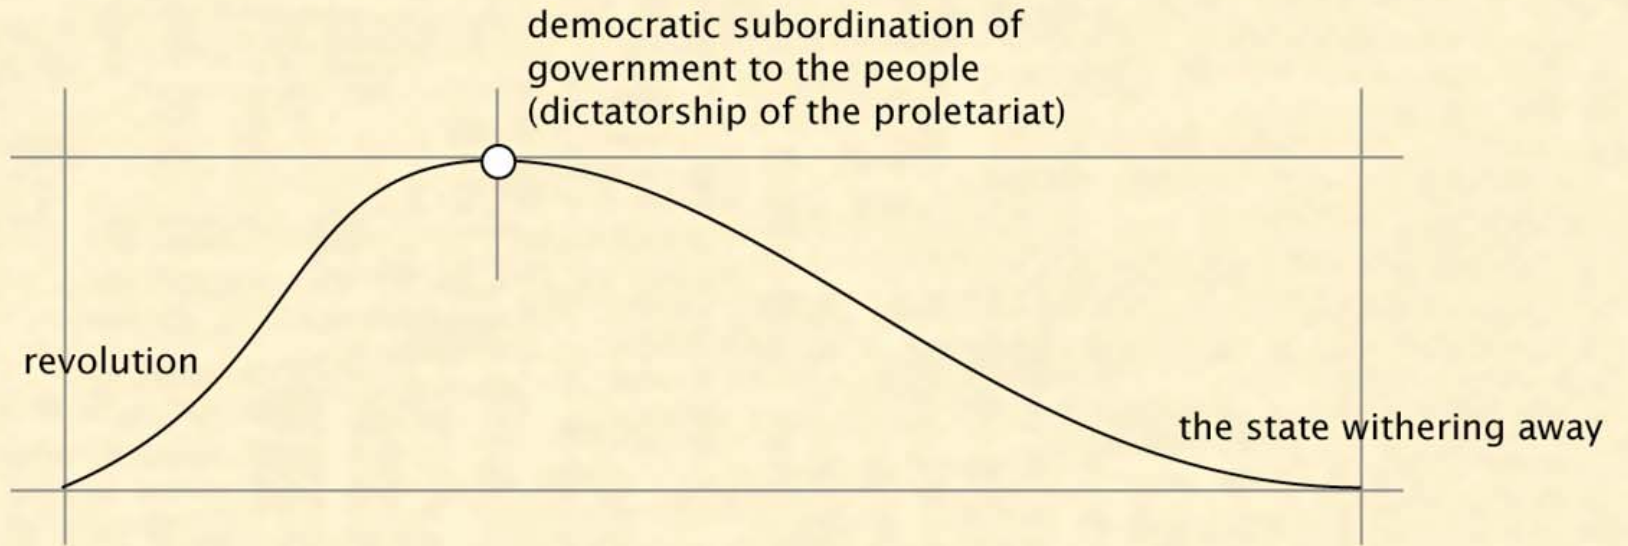

Principles

- Marxism
 - “From each according to his ability, to each according to his needs.”
- Leninism
 - The proletariat can only achieve consciousness through the party (and revolution)
- Democratic Centralism (Lenin)
 - “Freedom of discussion and criticism- Unity of action”
- Constructivism
 - “Language and rhetoric are used to construct reality” (Wikipedia)

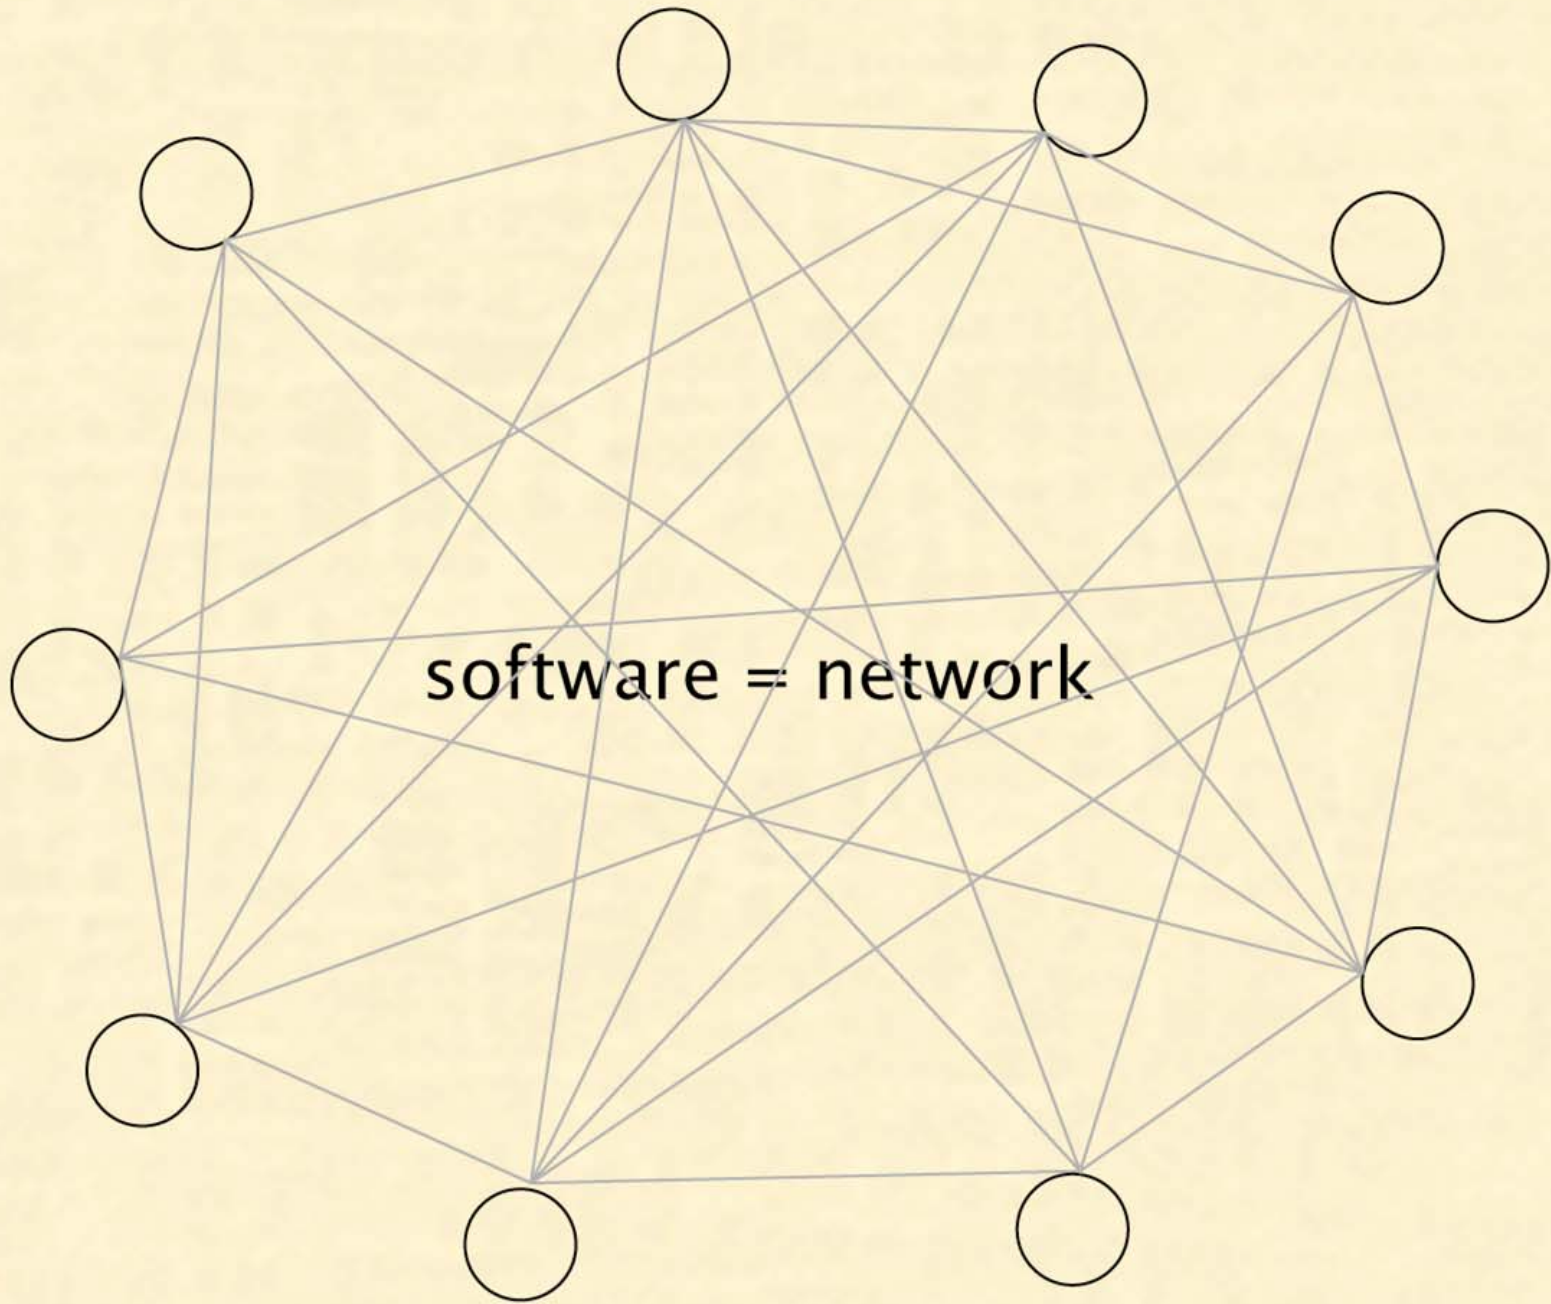

What would this be used for?

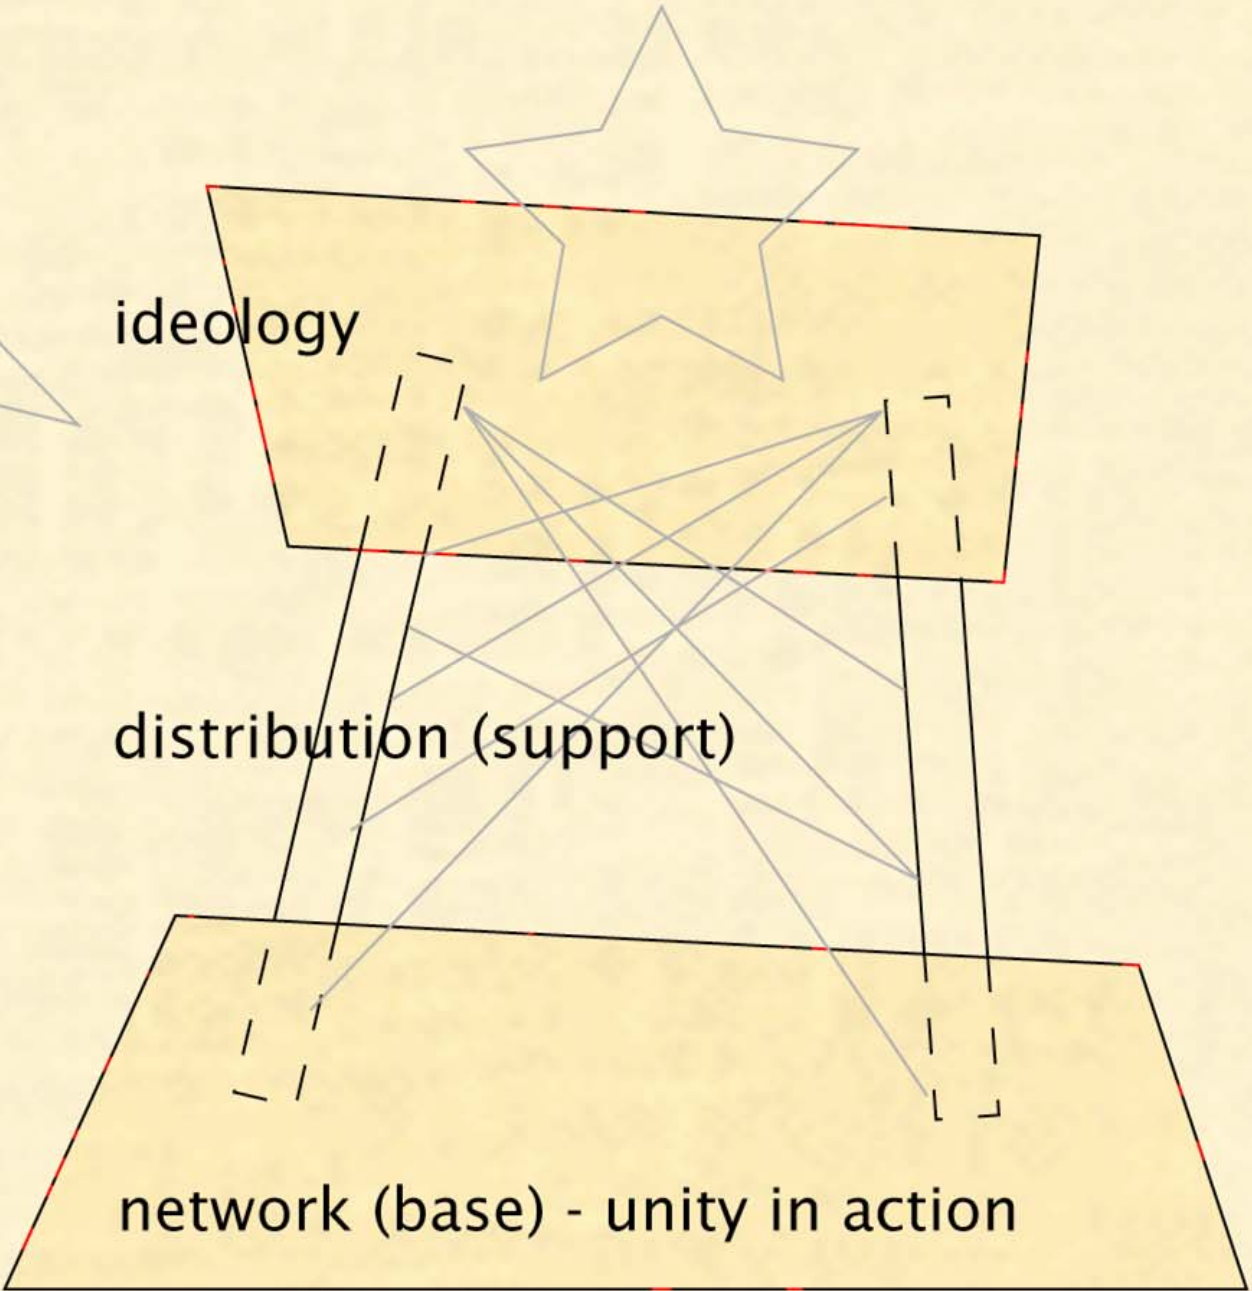

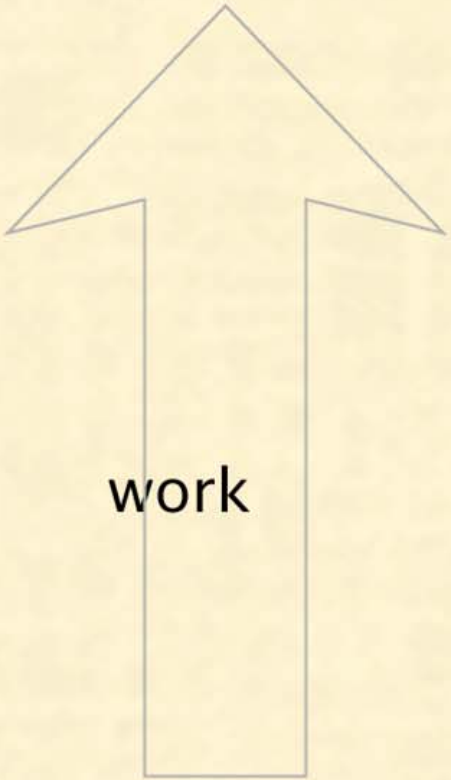

- Communication
 - Debate (deciding policy within the party)
 - Ideology/ Education
 - Their hold on power was fragile and communication was crucial
- Work/ Task delegation
 - Organization for rebuilding
- Spreading and propagating the system
 - Communism is an international system

Interface principles

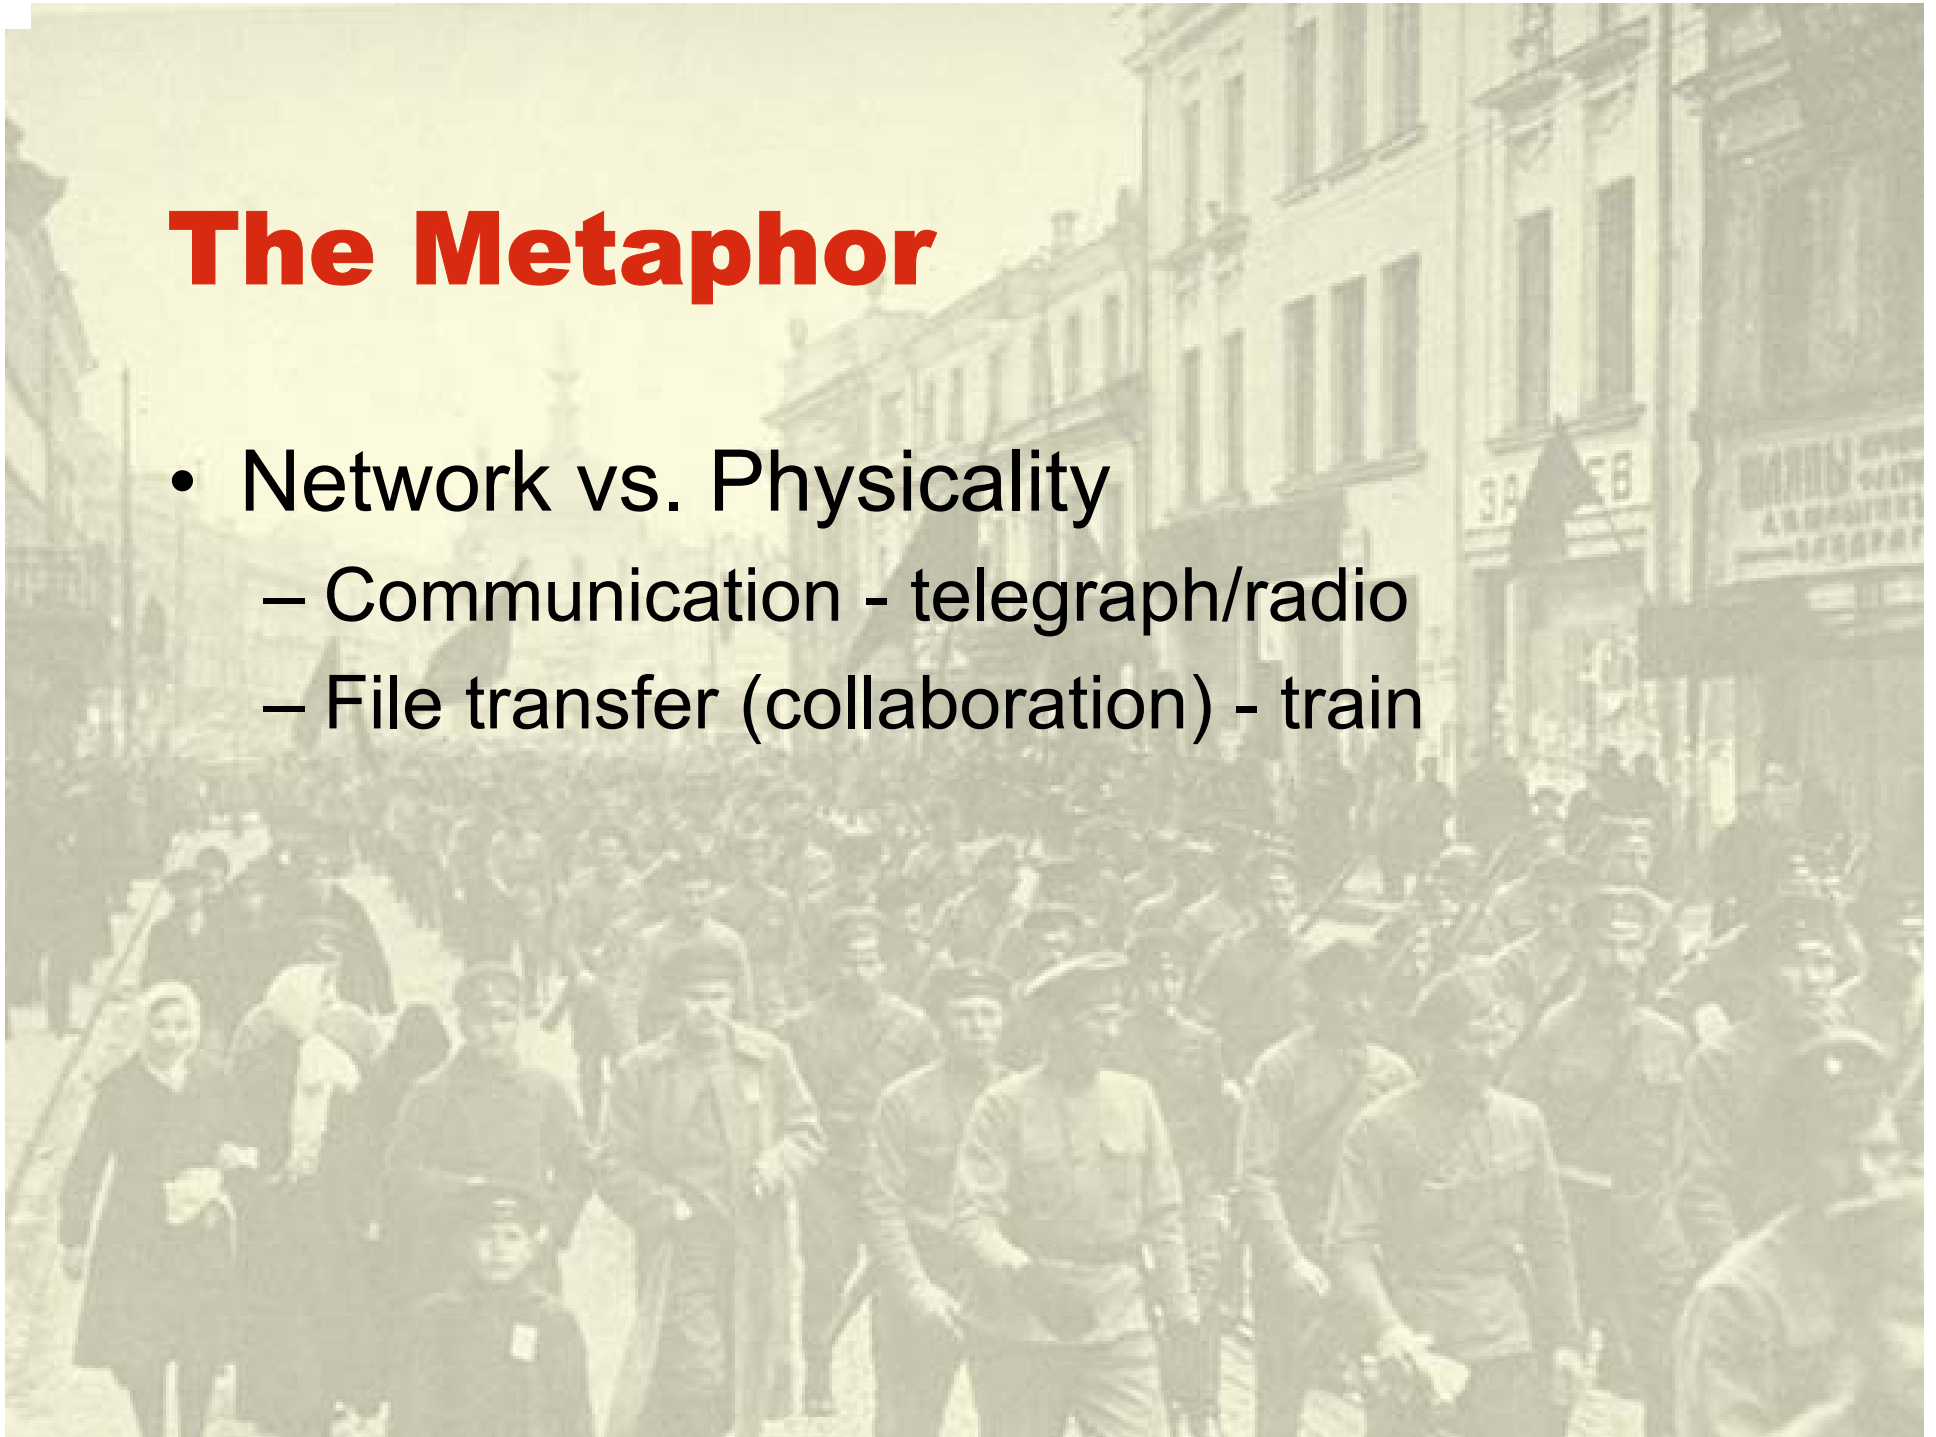

- The system only works when everyone works together
 - Distributed, open, teamwork
 - Owned by the people (who work on it and use it)
- Networked
- Is designed to spread itself

The Metaphor

- Network vs. Physicality
 - Communication - telegraph/radio
 - File transfer (collaboration) - train
